'Young Citizens' Organize For Abbitt Campaign

PETERSBURG -Formation of a "Young Citizens for Abbitt" organization throughout the Fourth Congressional District to aid in the re-election campaign of Representative Watkins M. Abbitt (D-Va.) was announced today.

The organization, embracing each of the District's 23 political subdivisions, was formally disclosed by William R. Hartz, of Waverly, and Lewis M. Walker, III, of Petersburg, who are serving as co-chairmen.

Coordinators have been appointed in each county and city in the District and committees will be formed in each area to work among young people in support of the Congressman, who is now bidding for re-election to the seat he has held since 1948.

Hartz, in making the announcement, said he will serve as coordinator for the district organization of "Young Citizens for Abbitt", and disclosed that elaborate plans for the group's activities were made in a meeting here last week, attended by more than 100 supporters. He said the group will seek active support for Abbitt among young voters and will work in cooperation with Abbitt's district-wide organization. "Young Citizens for Abbitt" will work out of a district headquarters to be established in Petersburg.

Hartz said he and Walker will focus attention on Abbitt's "many accomplishments in behalf of the Fourth District, the value of his seniority and experience in Washington and the tremendous energy which he has dedicated to the service of the people he represents." He said coordinators are already working in each political subdivision to set up local organizations "to familiarize the public with the job the Congressman is doing and the valuable role he is playing in affairs within the Fourth District as well as in Washington."

He said he and his co-workers "want to emphasize that no one in public life in Virginia has done more to encourage the active participation by young people in political affairs than has Congressman Abbitt. His door has always been open and he is ever-responsive to the needs of all of the people he represents."

In commenting on the campaign generally, Hartz said: "Congressman Abbitt's seniority, prestige, committee assignments and experience in Washington are vitally important, not only to the Fourth District, but to all Virginia. He is the senior member of the Virginia delegation in Congress and will be, when re-elected, among the top 40 in the House in point of seniority. He is the fourth-ranking member of the House of Agriculture Committee and chairman of its Tobacco Sub-

Robert E. Lee Academy Begins 4th Year

Robert E, Lee Academy will begin its fourth year of operation for the 1970-71 session on Monday, August 31, 1970.

Friday, August 28 has been designated as a day for teacher preparation and school meetings to consider instructional materials and procedures.

"The Academy's board of directors is pleased with the quality program of instruction that has been offered for the first three years," says the headmaster, Walter H. Carson, "and the board anticipates a superior program in the coming year."

"This is due," Carson says, "to the tremendous enthusiasm and support of the parents and teachers."

"The Board is delighted to announce that the teaching staff for the Academy includes the addition of three fine teachers," he says. Mrs. Ellen Barker will teach kindergarten age children; Mrs. Grace P. Taylor will teach first grade and Mrs. Harriet Cunningham, fourth and fifth.

Returning to the instructional staff will be Mrs. Jenny M. McAden, 2nd and 3rd grade; Mrs Mary S. Matthews, reading, language and social studies and Walter H. Carson, headmaster.

Mrs. Charles Barker

Mrs. Barker, wife of Charles P. Barker, minister of music and education at Liberty Baptist Church, comes to the Academy from Mississippi.

Mrs. T. M. Cunningham

"Mrs. Grace P. Taylor and Mrs. Harriet Cunningham are both outstanding teachers in the elementary field and have taught for many years in our local community," says Mr. Carson.

Mrs. John Taylor

The Board is also pleased to announce the addition of an eighth grade to its schedule. Curriculum for the eighth grade as for the seven elementary grades, is set up in conjunction with Va. State Board regulations and requirements, with regard both to instructors and materials, he says. The program will also include a course in composition and creative writing.

Mr. Carson says, further, that "with the continued support from the citizens of our county, the enthusiasm of our parents and the Academy's fine personnel, this should be our best year. The idea of three years ago is certainly beginning to bear fruit."
